

WAYS TO SAY NO

An African cyberfeminist publication & database

Information about my proposed project is included as a secure link to a handmade website. Kindly click here to access it.

Artist's Statement + Relevant Past Work

Artist's Statement: Oritsemughone Ogbemi pursues intactness through interconnected writing, computing, and collage practices. In all her work, she engages myth-making, cyberfeminism, psychoanalytic theory, and folklore alternately as methods for recuperating lineage.

Mamasima Magazine Issue #1

mamasima magazine is a hand-bound literary periodical featuring the work of three Nigerian writers and one visual artist. i assembled the issues using laid paper and silk thread and sold them in person at cultural events in Lagos over the course of November and December 2025. at all of the events, the issues were accompanied by a number of handcrafted objects: hand-beaded adire bookmarks made from offcut fabric, hand-bound memo notebooks, lunar calendars, and more. i am currently developing a digital version of issue #1 for the website.

Second Creature

second creature is a bimonthly newsletter on cyberfeminism, history, and African thought. each issue contains essay and original collage (paper + digital). issues are distributed to a list of artists and designers from three continents and published temporarily to a secret link. read a sample here.

Published Writing

my writing has appeared in Dekopon, Wreath, and miniskirt magazines (all print). the text of my essay on Yohji Yamamoto and the Row for miniskirt ('Your Eyes Have Become Dirty,' December 2025), influenced by my engagement with the work of adrienne maree brown, is linked here.

my handmade website: www.tsemone.com

Budget Proposal

Item	Estimated Cost (EUR)
Domain registration (for 5 years)	100
Secure hosting (for 5 years)	450
Honoraria for 10 contributors/interviewees whose creative responses to the workshop and video calls will be archived on the Ways to Say No website	500
Proton Meet subscription for secure consciousness-raising video calls (for 5 months)	50
Space rental for in-person HTML workshop (hopefully coinciding with HTML day in August 2026)	250
Printing of materials for HTML workshop in August (worksheets, stickers, light decor)	100
Snacks/provisions for HTML workshop in August	100
Additional expenses (incl. transportation and fuel)	300
	Total: 1,850